Jung's Visions of Jesus Christ

A Lecture by Murray Stein

Online

Saturday 30 November 2024

7pm – 9pm AEDT

In The Red Book and Memories Dreams Reflections, Jung reports a number of visions of Jesus Christ that came to him at critical turning points in his life. These are remarkable for their vividness and emotional, as well as intellectual, impact on him.

In this lecture, I will discuss the metanoetic function they seemed to serve in his personal development and for his theory of individuation. I will also discuss the importance of numinous experiences such as these for all who have them and work with them to further their psychological and spiritual development.

Murray Stein, Ph.D. was born in Canada and educated in the United States at Yale University (B.A. and M.Div.), and the University of Chicago (Ph.D.). He is a graduate of the C.G. Jung Institute of Zurich (1973) and is presently a Training and Supervising Analyst at the International School of Analytical Psychology Zurich (ISAP-ZURICH). He has been president of the Chicago Society of Jungian Analysts (1980-1985), the International Association for Analytical Psychology (2001-2004) and ISAP-ZURICH (2008-2012). He is the author of Jung's Treatment of Christianity, Jung's Map of the Soul, Outside Inside and All Around, and many other books and articles. His newly published Collected Writings so far contain 7 Volumes, among them Analytical Psychology and Christianity (Volume 5). He lives in Switzerland and has a private practice in Zurich, and from his home in Goldiwil (Thun).
