Edvard Munch – The Fairytale Forest

“Myths and fairy tales give expression to unconscious processes, and their retelling causes these processes to come alive again and be recollected, thereby re-establishing the connection between the conscious and the unconscious.”

C. G. Jung CW 9:ii para280

Deb, from New Zealand, Alison from Canada, and Mary Rose from Australia studied at ISAP Zurich and have been pondering Fairy Tales together since 2016. In considering the fairy tale in relation to the process of individuation we bring a fairly classical Jungian approach to our study of fairy tales. Our different professional backgrounds and different countries of residence contributes to the many threads that unfold during our discussions.

PRESENTERS

Mary Rose Nicol is a Jungian Analyst in private practice in Victoria Australia. Her training as an analyst was at ISAP Zurich. Previously her professional background has included working as a Midwife, Child and Family Health Nurse, and a Counsellor. She is a Dance Movement Therapist with a particular interest in Authentic Movement.

Alison Vida left her career as a guidance counsellor and teacher of language and literature to pursue formal study of Jungian theory and analysis in Zürich. She holds a life-long interest in the symbolic as it manifests in art and literature, and dreams.

Deb Wood is a Jungian Analyst (ISAP Zurich) and a psychiatrist in private practice in Christchurch New Zealand.
