Invitation to Mental Health Professionals

Encounters with Jungian and post-Jungian Theory and Clinical Practice: Reading Groups, Dream Groups and Clinical Discussion Groups

“What we want is a practical psychology which yields approvable results – one which explains things in a way that must be justified by the outcome for the patient. In practical psychotherapy we strive to fit people for life, and we are not free to set up theories which do not concern our patients and may even injure them”

C.G. Jung CW8: 678.

In 2021 ANZSJA’s Professional Development Programme will include Reading Groups, Dream Groups and Clinical Discussion Groups which, although including readings, will be primarily clinically focused. These groups are offered to mental health professionals interested in reading and thinking about Jungian and post-Jungian approaches to psychotherapy and analysis in the context of their own developing clinical practice.

Acceptance of a place in each group is at each facilitating analyst’s discretion. Fees are to be negotiated separately with the analyst facilitating the group. Each facilitating analyst will keep a record of attendance and professional development certificates will be issued by ANZSJA annually.

For bookings, and enquiries about specific groups, please contact the facilitating analysts directly. For general information about the professional development group program, please contact Group Coordinator Jo Violet at jo.violet@gmail.com
